Motion Picture Cooking School

The Herald has scored again! This newspaper has just been successful in securing the new Motion Picture Cooking School, "Star in My Kitchen," which will be presented at the Cameron on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday October 26, 27 and 28.

Mark the days on your calendar because every woman and man in the community is hereby extended a cordial invitation to see, absolutely free, this fascinating picture which weaves helpful, intelligent lessons on cooking and home making into a humorous and romantic plot.

The Motion Picture Cooking School is a brand new idea. First conceived last year, it has met with acclaim from women throughout the country, who like the happy combination of sparkling entertainment and close-up cooking instruction. Seats in the back row are as good as those in the front row—the motion picture permits everyone to hear and see every trick in frosting a cake, making a pie, or cooking bananas.

"Star in My Kitchen" was produced in Hollywood, and the audience will recognize many of the rising young actors and actresses who take part in it. Women young and old

PLANS ARE ADVANCED FOR STREET PAVING

Progress has been made in plans for street paving in Cameron and on Tuesday night the directors of the Chamber of Commerce sent its committee to a conference with the city's engineer, Mr. C. T. Rady.

The purpose of this conference is to ascertain the cost and the best possible means of financing the project. The City Council seems willing to finance a paving project if a means can be found to raise the money within its present tax limit. With the use of WPA labor it is possible for property owners to build curb and gutters at a very small cost and if such a program can be arranged, prospects are bright for a street paving job for Cameron.

Girl Scouts to Meet at Park Saturday

A Girl Scout committee under the leadership of Mrs. Nancy Lea Vaughan, will meet on Saturday afternoon to discuss re-organization of the Girl Scouts of Cameron.

All girls of scout age who are interested in the re-organization of the Girl Scouts are urged to be present at this meeting.

The meeting will be held at the City Park Pavilion on Saturday afternoon, September 17, at 3 p. m.

Mrs. Nancy Lea Vaughan is Scout Leader and Mrs. Juanita Smith Brod is First Lieutenant. The Girl Scout committee is composed of Mrs. Lottie Bigbee, Mrs. J. P. Love, Mrs. J. C. Martin and Mrs. Gladys M. Watson.

Ad Hall School To Open Monday

The Ad Hall school will open Monday morning, September 19th. Two of the teachers will be new members of the faculty. The faculty includes C. T. Bridgewater, principal; Mrs. C. T. Bridgewater, intermediate; Mrs. Bud Talley, intermediate; and Mrs. Lowen Cox, primary. Mr. Bridgewater said, "We are planning one of the best school years in Ad Hall history. The tenth grade was transferred to Cameron. Ad Hall will have another winning basketball and track team this season."

Joe E. Brown in "Gladiator" is Cameron Film Feature

Joe E. Brown in "The Gladiator" with June Travis, Robert Kent and Man Mountain Dean, the bearded behemoth of ring fame, will be the week's new feature at the Cameron Theatre starting Tuesday.

Departing from his customary characterizations, the cavern-mouthed comedian, in his newest offering, portrays the role of a scientifically-created superman. Those who read Phillip Wylie's novel of the same title will remember the humorous circumstances under which "The Gladiator" was launched on his college misadventures.

Brown, returning to Webster College as a sophomore, is beaten and

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AGAINST COTTON PLAN

Opposition to the present cotton control program was expressed by directors of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night when a vote was cast unanimously in response to a question asked by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The directors expressed no preference for any particular plan but felt that the present plan was not only injurious to cotton producing territory but eventually might lead to destruction of business as well. In the view of the directors it is not possible to maintain employment and buying power with the present low acreage allotted to cotton.

The expression here is one among hundreds of such votes being taken by the Chambers of Commerce, civic bodies and farmers throughout the cotton states.

George Banzhaf, county agent, said farmers would vote again this winter on whether they desire control acreage for another year. In the view of a number of directors it is believed the farmers will not vote again for the compulsory reduction. It was brought out in discussions that American cotton must be sold regardless of price if in the future cotton farms of the south are to be given any hope of a permanently reasonable price for cotton.

The domestic allotment plan was not discussed. In brief it provides for a subsidy on cotton consumed in America and all cotton raised for export to be sold at current market prices. Under this plan there is no restriction on the amount of cotton any farmer can raise.

Under the present plan farmers will be unable both by reason of limited production, as well as greatly reduced government benefits to operate their farms on a profitable basis. Unless and until American cotton becomes a competitive commodity in the world market there can be no hope of regaining the south's lost cotton trade.

Milam Theatre to Be Opened Sunday And Monday

Motion picture fans and patrons of the Milam Theatre will be glad to note that Stanley Swift, owner, will open the theatre on Sunday and Monday of each week until further notice.

The first such program for the Milam opens Sunday, September 18, and the feature picture is "Wells Fargo" with Bob Burns, Frances Dee, Joel McCrea and Lloyd Nolan.

This opening feature is followed on each Monday and Tuesday with big time pictures, the next two in order being "Her Jungle Love" with Dorothy Lamour and Fredrick March in "The Buccaneer."

ROTARY GOVERNOR VISITS IN CAMERON

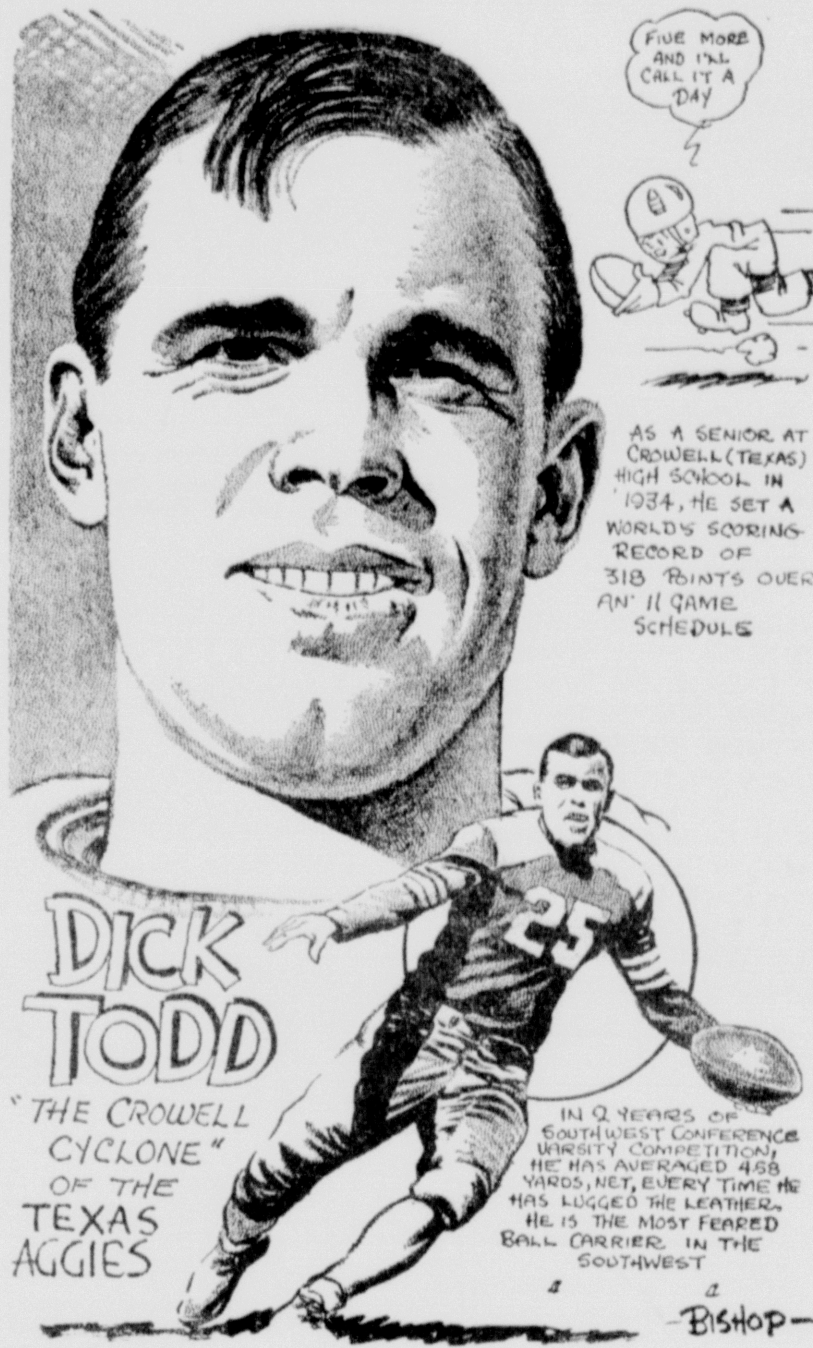

Francis Dunn of Port Arthur, governor of District No. 130 of the Rotary International was a guest of the Cameron Rotary club on Wednesday.

At ten o'clock in the office of the Chamber of Commerce Mr. Dunn held a club assembly meeting with officers and committee chairmen at which time the officers received instructions on the vital work of Rotary Club. At the noon luncheon Mr. Dunn spoke to the principals of Rotary and how they may be put to practice in the cities and towns of the country.

The club will undertake organizing a Rotary club in Rockdale at some time in the future. An award to the outstanding student of high school this year has been arranged for and the club plans other activities such as work among boys and crippled children.

The attendance was almost unanimous, only two having been absent on Wednesday. The Inner-city committee from the Houston Rotary club will be in Cameron some time in October for a meeting to embrace a number of clubs from this territory.

COTTON LOANS NOW AVAILABLE TO FARMERS

Government loans on 1938 cotton are now being made at the Cameron Compress and other bonded warehouses in Texas according to P. W. Davis, manager of the local press. The 8.30 cent per pound on seven-eighths inch staple, middling grade cotton to carry out a plan was announced by the department of agriculture last week.

The Cameron Compress Company was one of the first compresses in Texas to announce ready for this service to the farmers. Farmers who complied with the government program in 1938 may place as much cotton as they desire in this loan. Farmers who did not co-operate, may receive loans on cotton produced by them in excess of the allotment and which if sold will be subject to a penalty.

The farmer who did not co-operate can receive only 60 per cent of the full loan rate. Cameron is a large cotton center and the Cameron Compress Company under Mr. Davis is to be congratulated on this service to the farmers.

James M. Tongate of Waco, who has had charge of the Cotton Co-operative office in Cameron for a number of years has returned to Cameron to resume his work.

NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Bishop Clennon S. Quinn of the Diocese of Texas will preach Sunday morning at All Saints Episcopal Church. From Cameron he will go to A & M College to dedicate the new chapel.

Grand Jury in District Court was expected to report late Thursday afternoon on its deliberation for the past two weeks. As usual the report comes too late for publication in the Herald.

In an effort to eliminate danger and possible death to bicycle riders, Gene Smith, city marshal, has been instructed to stop small boys from riding to fires. Mr. Smith says he will take the bicycles and lock them up if the boys do not obey these instructions.

Cameron schools opened Monday with the largest enrollment in history, almost within the class A regulations. There were 540 students enrolled in high school, a number of them being former graduates. A total of 525 students are enrolled in the Ada Henderson school.

READY SAYS COACH WOOD

Coach L. U. Urbanek of the American School Foundation team of Mexico City, with his football squad and assistants will reach Cameron on the night of September 20 for the game with the Cameron Yoemen on the night of September 22nd at Yomen field.

A letter from A. B. Keeler, principal of the school, to Coach Wood in Cameron, lists the number of men to make the trip. The team will be in Cameron four days and will be entertained in the homes of Cameron citizens. A barbecue has been arranged for Friday night. The Mexican party and athletes will come to Cameron by bus.

Coach Urbanek is a graduate of the University of Norte Dame and gets his football experience from the school of the late Knute Brockden.

A number of the football boys attached to the squad will pay their own expenses. Samuel Samarel and Edward Kiban, team managers are listed among the officials to accompany the party to Cameron.

The players who are paying their own expenses to be with the team on the tour are members of the third string and are not included in the above table of the first and second squads.

Members of the 1938 American School Foundation football squad will reach Cameron on September 19, for a three-day stay in advance of the game on Thursday night, September 22, with the Cameron Yoemen.

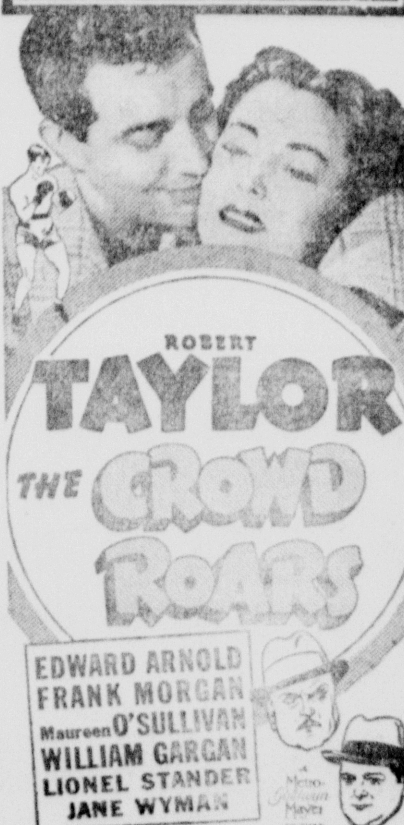

Coach Wood of the Cameron Yoemen was putting his charges through some serious work this week and will begin tapering off for the initial game of the 1938 schedule against the fast, tricky Mexican team now making an American tour.

Plans to entertain the Mexico City team are under way and all organizations in the city are co-operating to make their stay in Cameron a pleasant one. The Cameron Athletic Council on Monday night made final plans for the game with the American School Foundation and also mapped out the program for the entire year of football.

Yoemen field is expected to be a crowded theatre for the big thrill when the kick off comes at 8 p. m. Thursday night, September 22nd.

Mrs. A. W. Harriss had as her week end guests all of her children, O. D. Harriss and family of Houston, P. D. Harriss and family, and Gene Harriss of Cameron.

10,096 PICKERS SENT TO WACO DISTRICT

At the request of farmers in the Waco district 10,096 cotton pickers were sent to them by the Texas State Employment Service during August, is the latest report from the farm division of the employment service. Eight hundred and sixteen of these placements were made in and around Cameron showing an increase over August of last year, R. C. Moody, local manager says, which is due partly to a better organized farm department and to the assistance of extra men sent here by the state administrative office to help in securing enough pickers to harvest the crop quickly and with a minimum amount of effort on the part of the farmers.

The employment office located at 206 N. Central Street is offering jobs to all local field workers. Crews of cotton pickers are assembled and routed in an orderly fashion to farmers who have left orders for them and any size crews are available, Moody states.

In addition to referring farm hands to seasonal jobs, something is being done about the unemployed who say that they would gladly work if they could find jobs. The employment service found jobs in private industry for 67 unemployed, qualified people in Cameron last month.

Five of the people placed were claimants who had previously filed claims for unemployment compensation. During the last thirty days there were 79 initial claims and 789 continuing claims filed for job insurance at the Cameron office.

Prize Ring Champs In "The Crowd Roars" With Robert Taylor

More than fifty "greats" and "near-greats" of the prizefight world became voluntary technical directors for Robert Taylor's latest starring picture, "The Crowd Roars," which comes to the Cameron Theatre Sunday Sept. 18, for a twoday engagement.

Appearing with Taylor in a gymnasium sequence which was staged with one of the studio's largest sound stages serving as the gymnasium itself, were such fighters as Jimmy McLarnin, twice world's welterweight title-holder; Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion five years; Joe Glick, who fought seven champions including McLarnin; Frankie Grandetta, West Coast bantam sensation; Abe the Newsboy, "hero of a thousand fights;" Abe Bain, who fought Rosenbloom for the light-heavyweight crown; Jack Roper, Coast heavyweight "spoiler;" Hank Hankinson, heavyweight with a record of seventy-one knockouts in ninety-eight starts; "Globe-trotter" Sammy Shack; Tommy Herman, who k.o'd Freddie Steel and Billy Petrolle; Bing Conley, New England middleweight champ; Willie Callahan New Hampshire champ; Billy McGowan, Southern middleweight; and such others as Joe Grey, Benny Mozelle, Joe Lynch, Abdulah Abbas and Larry Williams, former sparring partner for Dempsey and Tunney.

Signed to lend color to the sequence, to spar in three separate rings, to skip rope, punch the bag, work out on rowing machines, shadow-box and go through calisthenics, every one of them knew just exactly how the rings should be set up, how Taylor should tape his hands, and every other detail of the scene. Finally, it reached the point where there were more technical directors than actors, until Director Richard Thorpe assigned each one to a definite chore before the camera.

Finest quality standard parts are used in repairing all radios.

• The long stretches of Texas highways are an example of the special problems posed by driving conditions in the State. These problems, insofar as motor fuels, motor oils and lubricants are concerned, are best solved by an organization with a thorough experience in the needs of Texas motorists.

Humble motor fuels, motor oils and lubricants are manufactured in Texas from Texas crude oils produced by Texans. The people who guide these manufacturing processes are themselves operators of Texas automobiles. They know, from first-hand experience, what the average Texas motorist must have for dependable performance, and they leave no stone unturned to give him products which he can depend on in every day hard use. Perhaps that's one reason why so many Texans regularly stop for motor fuels and motor oils where they see the Humble sign.

Try Humble products yourself. The next time you need gasoline, stop at a Humble Service Station or dealer's and fill up with a Humble motor fuel; try a Humble motor oil. Performance in your car will convince you of their exceptional suitability to your own kind of driving—you'll come back for more!

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

WE ARE TIRED OF BEING BOSSSED

The farmer can't do this and the farmer can't do that is all the go now.

Well I would like to know why he can't; everybody else does as he pleases. I think as long as he lives on his own land makes his own living, and tends to his own business, he should be left alone.

I don't think it is fair for some highly educated stiff that don't know how to hold a hoe, or a rake or harness a mule to come along and tell a farmer how to work his land after he has done this work for twenty or thirty years or maybe longer than that.

Now wouldn't it be a fine how do you do if some little untanned farmer would walk up to the banker and tell him how and what to do? Or go tell the merchant how many yards of material he could sell and how many yards he would have to put away some place? We might say go plow it under or burn it up. They would soon tell you where to head in.

I feel like if some of these smart-ies that think they know everything and don't know anything would stay at their desk or behind their counter wherever they belong and tend to their own business, instead of nosing around in someone else's business, this might be a peaceful world to live in.

First the big stiff comes along and tells the farmer how many acres he can plant. When crops are planted and growing nicely, then he come along and tells the farmer how many acres he has to plow under.

The man that owns fifty acres has to plow up the nicest strip of cotton or corn on his farm, and the man that owns five hundred acres of land plows up some hillside or gully that actually won't grow Johnson grass, rents it to the government and gets the same amount for the sorry land as the little farmer gets for his good land that he had to plow under.
After getting paid for the land that won't grow anything he still has his hundreds of acres of land from which he gets his crop and when time comes to sell the cotton, he gets as much for it as anybody else and calls it even.

I think it would be a wise idea for every man that wants to own a farm to live on it and work the land himself instead of holding some big job in town and at the same time to take the land away from the man that has no other way of making a living except by farming and everybody knows he can't farm if he has no land to farm on or any tools to farm with.

If you don't give the poor man a better chance to make money how is he going to pay his mortgages, his grocery and doctor bills? He can't do it because his crop was taken away from him before it was harvested.

Then when the poor man is on the relief, you wonder how he got there.
If he wants to rent a house for his family to live in he has to live in some little shack that is in such bad shape he has to walk on his tip toes to keep the roof from coming down on his head.

But still he has to pay as much house rent as he was living in a brick venier.

MRS. CHARLES E. ALLDAY BURIED IN CAMERON

Mrs. Charles E. Allday died at 2:30 p. m. on September 8, 1938, at a local hospital following several days of illness and the birth of a baby son who has been named Charles E. Allday, Jr.

When news came of the death of Mrs. Allday, friends throughout the city were profoundly sorrowful. Her condition had been grave for several days and close friends of the family knew of her serious illness but the shock of her death brought a burden of sorrow and hundreds of expressions of deepest sympathy to Mr. Allday and the family.

Mrs. Allday was the former Miss Blanche Wiley and was reared at Leander in Burnet County. Her mother died when she was but three days of age and she was reared in the home of an aunt. After completing her high school education, she attended State University at Austin and there received her degree. She was elected a member of the Cameron High School faculty a number of years ago and remained a member of the faculty until shortly after her marriage to Charles E. Allday, who for a number of years has been a valued employee in the office of the McLane Company in Cameron. Mr. Allday is a native of Franklin in Robertson County.

Mrs. Allday is survived by her husband and infant son, their first child who has been named Charles E. Allday, Jr. Prominent for years in the social and religious circles, being also active in a number of clubs, Mrs. Allday had endeared herself to many people in Cameron. During the past few years the Allday home has been a center for social entertainment in connection with her membership in clubs and many close friends will be sincerely grieved over her passing.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at three o'clock in the First Methodist Church with Rev. J. Coy, Williams, pastor, delivering the funeral sermon, paying to deceased a touching tribute. Mrs. Allday was a member of the Methodist church.

Green Funeral Home had charge of the services and pall bearers were John Henderson, Henry Patillo, Chas. Hicks, Charlie Davison, Albert Collins, Penn Wolf, Harvie Yoe, and Guy T. Newton. Interment was made in Oakhill Cemetery. The church was packed by the sorrowing throng who came to pay their tribute to the young mother whose life in the city had profoundly impressed many people. The floral offerings were a wealth of sentiment numerous expressed by many who sought in this way to show their appreciation of one they had loved so profoundly during her lifetime and whose passing will leave a burden of sorrow the years can not erase.

bludgeoned on the football field in the spirit of good clean fun when he attempts to impress Miss Travis, the belle of the campus. That night the Professor who owns the boarding house where Brown resides selects Brown as the unwitting subject of an experiment to increase the human experiment works.

From that point on the story of "The Gladiator" is as amazing as it is amusing, picturing Brown as a virtual one-man Olympic team and a co-ed favorite from coast to coast.

In the secondary male lead is Robert Kent, able young actor who is the rival of Brown for June Travis' affections. In a prominent juvenile role is 12 year old Dickie Moore, in a poignant portrayal of a runaway orphan befriended by Brown. In the role of the eccentric professor, who evolves the secret of the superman, is Lucien Littlefield. And portraying his fuss-budget, nagging wife, is Ethel Wales.

Man Mountain Dean, the ponderous comic mainstay of the American wrestling ring, and Brown come to grips in the climactic wrestling match, said to be one of the most spectacular and hilarious sequences ever captured by movie cameras.

"The Gladiator" was directed by Edward Sedgwick, who piloted Brown through two previous successes, "Riding on Air" and "Fit for a King." Charles Melson and Arthur Sheekman wrote the screen play.

John Calvin Haygood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haygood, is here for a short stay from Camp Perry, in Ohio where he spent part of the summer and will leave soon for Ellisville, Miss., where he has a scholarship and will be Assistant Band Director in Ellisville college.

Notice!!

TO

Bicycle Riders and Others

This is to give notice that bicycle riders must immediately discontinue the practice of riding to fires or following the fire trucks and firemen. The City Council has instructed me in the interest of safety to the small boys who ride bicycles to stop the practice. After this warning, if it becomes necessary to take bicycles and lock them up to prohibit this dangerous riding, please do not blame the city marshal.

We have been fortunate thus far that no boy has been killed riding in the path of the fire trucks. It will be my duty to take these bicycles and lock them up if the boys continue this dangerous practice. This warning also applies to civilians who get in their cars and race to fires and interfere with the work of the firemen.

Many times in the past these warnings have been issued. Due to the increased number of bicycle riders, these regulations will be strictly enforced. The marshal can not be blamed for a strict policy in this matter in the future. Human life is at stake and the work of the firemen is too important to tolerate interference in any manner.

GENE SMITH, City Marshal.

By Order of the City Council.

Business College

I rode up to Hutchinson in October, 1907, with hardly more cash in my pocket than enough to pay for my tuition.

I never had any doubt about my ability to earn my board and room by working in spare time, although it might have made me pause and think if anybody could have told me that the whole country would be hit a few weeks later by the great money panic of 1907.

Hutchinson looked mighty big to me then. It has over 27,000 folks now, and must have been pretty big then. It was already an important grain and wheat center, considerable of a manufacturing place and had more banks than I knew existed. There was also a big salt works. In the early days the town had got its start mainly because of its salt plains. And the school I picked out took this old popular name of Hutchinson and called itself the Salt City Business College.

The head of the college then—just as today—was J. D. Conard, as fine a citizen and educator as you'll find anywhere. Thirty years ago his school was run on a plan that has since spread far and wide over the country into many universities and colleges. It was the "learn while you earn" plan, which he proudly advertised as a "Salt City" idea. Had to Earn While He Learned

When I talked with Mr. Conard I explained I could pay for my lessons. But I had to have enough work to earn my living. He said that would be all right, but, having to put in so much time on the side, I had better not plan to finish the course under about two years. I said nothing about that, because I had made up my mind to finish it much sooner. I signed up for the bookkeeping course, including stenography, and registered on Oct. 21, 1907.

Next it was up to me to find work. My experience in the restaurant business back home—it had sort of grown by the time I reached Hutchinson—stood me in good stead. I persuaded the proprietor of the old Reno Hotel to give me a job waiting on tables and behind the counter in his lunchroom. The only pay I got was my food.

There was one drawback. As a waiter, I got only the food that was dished out to me. So I started laying plans to improve the variety of my own grub. I noticed the cook was kind of lazy, and it didn't make him mad at all when I began helping him some over the big cafe range. Finally he got so he would let me shoulder more and more of his responsibility, and in no time I was getting to eat anything I wanted in the establishment. I worked early in the morning, then after school in the evenings and at night.

Shagging Newspapers a Great Experience

But you couldn't sleep in the Reno Hotel lunchroom. I had to earn hard cash to pay my landlady. So I talked the traveling agent of the Kansas City Star into letting me deliver his paper in Hutchinson.

That was a great experience, shagging newspapers. The early morning train from Kansas City got in about 4 o'clock. I had a regular route over town and had to use a bicycle to get it all before breakfast. I carried the papers in a big sack thrown over my shoulders.

Handling a paper route is a fine way for youngsters to gain good business training. It teaches them the principles and methods of the business world. They have to give prompt service and get along with old customers and use the art of salesmanship to gain new customers. They must also keep up their collections, or else lose money. I had as many as 100 customers at one time, and it would take me two to two and one half hours to get around to them all every morning. In this way I earned $50 a month, enough to pay for my room, my clothes and other expenses—but not much more for any other items like entertainment. I think a whole lot of my experience as a newsboy. So much, in fact, that I let my two sons start selling magazines, and then carry paper routes when they were old enough to benefit from the experience.

No Time for Social Diversions

Although it may not look like it, with my newspaper and cafe jobs, my main job was in the business college. I'd paid my hard earned money for the lessons and I was determined to get my money's worth. Of course, working and studying as steadily as I had to didn't leave me much time for going with the girls or other social diversions. The one girl I was to fall in love with seriously wasn't living near there when I was in business college.

There were ten courses in the line of study I was taking besides bookkeeping and stenography, there were commercial arithmetic, grammar and composition, spelling, letter writing, punctuation, commercial law, rapid calculation of figures, and what is known today as business administration.

From my final grade card, which is still in file at the college at Hutchinson, I see that no marks are set down for penmanship. I don't understand this because my handwriting is something I've always taken some pride in.

Got Diploma in Less Than Eight Months

I think I surprised Professor Conard in the time I finished his course. My diploma was issued on May 5, 1908, less than eight months after I started. Recently he has said some mighty kind things about my work in college. He looked up my grades and found I stayed up in the eighties and nineties. Considering all I was trying to do in that short time, I suppose my record in college shows at least I tried to apply myself. It was, as one of the other pupils wrote later, "a school of system scholarship and papers. The discipline is perfect. Students are all interested; all are pleased with their rapid advancement."

As an 18 year old lad with a diploma in hand, I was now ready and anxious to get my first job in the business world. And here Professor Conard helped me. The Kramer Milling Company of Anthony, Kansas, wrote him about that time for a stenographer. They wanted one who also knew bookkeeping. He gave me the chance at the job and I took it. I would have taken it if it had been a railroad office, a bank, or any of a hundred other lines.

I had no idea, of course, when I set out for Anthony that I was headed into the milling and flour business for the next thirty or more years of my life.

My First Job

Anthony was a much bigger town than Arlington when I went there from business college to take my first real job. It had about 2,500 people. I was hired by Pete and Joe Kramer, owners and operators of the Kramer Milling Company, as a stenographer at $10 a week.

The bookkeeper for the mill was Glenn Hilts. Glenn and me became good friends from the start. Through him I met his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hilts, and his sisters and brothers. They let me rent a room in their big, rambling old home on the edge of town. I was still pretty much of a kid and felt like I was far from home. I would have got lonesome and homesick many a time except for the way the Hilts made me feel like I was a member of their family.

There were always a lot of young folks around the Hilts home. Naturally, there was a lot going on—parties and picnic and Sunday school socials. I'd never had much time, either in Arlington or Hutchinson, to join in on social life, and it was a grand, new experience there in Anthony. There was Mrs. Hilts, and Glenn (who is now an official in a big milling company in Kansas City) and Durland Hilts, and their very pretty and attractive sister, Helen—who sometimes favored me by letting me take her to some of the parties.

Good Time Extra With Lee

But having a good time was sort of extra with me. I wanted to get ahead in business more than anything else. I liked to work and tried to do my job at the mill, although I was in a hurry to get a better job than that of a $10 a week stenographer.

Soon after I went to Anthony Pete Kramer hired a high-powered sales manager. This fellow was from way up East and liked to do more talking than working. He reminded me of the cook in the Reno Hotel in Hutchinson. He liked to shove as much of his work off on somebody else as he could get away with. I was his stenographer, and it was a fine job for me to learn what a sales manager does—or is supposed to do.

At first the sales manager dictated his letters to me in full; then he'd get in a hurry and sort of outline a letter and let me fill it in. A little later, when he wasn't in the office when maybe he should have been, I wrote two or three letters for him. That pleased him so much, and relieved him of so much work, that he got to letting me write all his letters. All he had to do was just sign his name at the bottom.

Well, that worked out just fine for the sales manager and me. He had more time to loaf, or do whatever he wanted to, and I was getting the hang of a much better job than I had. But Pete Kramer was, and is, an old-time business executive. He found out one day what was happening. So he fired the high-powered sales manager and promoted me to his job—with a fair increase in my salary. Now Pete Kramer and I were satisfied, although I guess the former sales manager was unhappy about it. He now had more time on his hands than he had bargained for.

Sells Trainload of Flour

I was so proud of being promoted from stenographer to sales manager, overnight, that I tried to put everything I had into the job. As a result I soon sold and shipped a solid trainload of flour from the Anthony mill—a feat never before heard of in milling circles in the great flour milling State of Kansas.

Many of the cars in this special trainload of flour were shipped to Texas. This gave me a vision of the possibility of salesmanship in Texas as well as in the possibilities of salesmanship itself. I wondered then why the businessmen and farmers of Texas, with vast expanses of fertile soil, would stand by and watch flour from other States shipped in by the trainload.

I gave full time and value received to the Gramers. But all the while in the back of mind I was looking toward the day when I would have a business of my own. I suppose every young fellow has a dream like that, just as he looks forward to meeting the girl of his dreams and having a family of his own. Probably I never would have gotten beyond the dream stage about a business of my own if it hadn't been for an older friend of mine in Anthony.

This was W. A. Miller, president of the Citizens National Bank of Anthony, who was one of the lasting friends I made after leaving business college. He took an interest in me and listened patiently to my hopes and ambitions.

"That's all mighty fine, Danny," he would say, "but you can't found a business on hot air. It takes money, and the only money I know is that which is saved by somebody."

Learns Lesson of Thrift

It was W. A. Miller who first taught me the necessity for real thrift, the value of steady, if small, savings. He persuaded me to decide to save a part of every weekly salary check I got. And beginning on Oct. 10, 1910—according to the records in his bank today—I deposited $12 in his bank, and then averaged $10 a week more from then on.

Mr. Miller seemed mighty pleased with my progress in saving, because he knew I wasn't earning very much and that $10 a week meant I had to pass up a lot of things that most young fellows want to spend their money for. One day he called me in and suggested I make my first investment. It was in stock in the Anthony Building & Loan Association. I knew Mr. Miller was also an official of that association, and it was, therefore a safe and sound investment. So I followed his advice and in a year or so, all my savings were going into that enterprise. Glenn Hilts and I often talked about when we would have a business of our own. For a time we thought we'd be partners, especially as we had a big idea of starting a chicken ranch in Texas. From what we had heard about the country and the climate, that was where we'd make our fortunes.

But that took more capital than we had between us, so we figured we'd start in a small way first, right there on the Hilts home place. We did start in the chicken business on the side. But it was a bigger job than we counted on—and that investment would have been lost entirely if Mrs. Hilts had not taken the chickens off our hands to add to her own flock of Rhode Island Reds and Dominiqueers.

Becomes a Camera Fan

Glenn was a great camera fan and I began trying my hand at taking pictures. With the small amount of capital we had saved from the chicken venture we decided to take a vacation trip to Colorado. It was hot as blazes, of course, when we left Anthony, and I'll never forget how cool and fine the air was in those mountains. We climbed Mount Evans and some other peaks, finding snowdrifts 10,000 feet high where we could sonal in the middle of August. We used many a roll of film snapping pictures on that expedition.

I don't remember the exact route

we took on the train, but I don't think we went through Granada. That town in Colorado was to mean a lot to me a little later on, but at that time I had no idea it was the birthplace of my future wife and that she was even then living not so far from the State line of Colorado.

Back in Anthony the job was waiting for me when Glenn and I returned from Colorado. I had no intention of leaving it, nor of touching my savings account that now totaled several hundred dollars. But it is the nature of an emergency to happen when you're least expecting it. New week—A Family Emergency

After a wedding trip to Colorado Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Myers will make their home in Odessa. The couple were married Saturday night at the Hemphill Presbyterian Church by E. B. King. The bride is the former Miss Eva Mildred Magendie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holland Magendie, 4600 Collinwood. Mr. Myers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Myers of Pittsburgh Pa. The bride traveled in a teal blue velvet frock with burnt earth embroidery at the neckline. Her accessories and hat were of burnt earth. The ceremony was performed before an altar of plumed fern flanked with clusters of peach gladioli and white tapers. Miss Marie Lydon played the organ for the wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. Floyd Hatfield, singing "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning." Mr. Carter Magendie, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. George Roseburg, Jr., of Dallas, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a Victorian period gown of moire taffeta with grape wine velvet trimming and a halo hat trimmed with grape wine velvet. The gown was fashioned with a bouffant skirt and short puffed sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. The bride wore a Victorian period gown of Caribbean blue velvet with voluminous skirt falling into a slight train. The square neckline was edged with white starched lace, and the short sleeves were fashioned of two drop shoulder ruffles. On her head the bride wore a halo of blue velvet with a shoulder veil of boy blue. Her cascade bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses, gardenias and stephanotis. The ushers were Messrs Amon Carter, Jr., J. R. Howell, Jr., George Roseburg, Jr., and Henry Brooks. Mrs. Magendie wore a larkspur blue crepe frock with Caribbean blue accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Her hat was of Caribbean blue velvet. A reception was held after the wedding. At one end of the table was a nosegay arrangement of Better Times red roses and at the other the wedding cake. White candles burned in silver holders. Miss Helen Cross and Mrs. Carter Magendie presided at the cake. Mr. Myers is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.—Port Worth Star-Telegram.

Wednesday morning at 9 a. m. in the home of Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp, the initial meeting for Jeff Rogers Chapter for season of 1938-39 was held with full attendance present. Reports were read and routine business transacted. Miss Aetna Smith was chosen delegate to the State Convention in Corsicana, October 11 to 14, 1938. The Chapter presented an interesting program on the culture of Indigo in the south. Mrs.

Caroline Meriweather Goodlett, founder of the UDC, was remembered as a September heroine and the life of General John B. Hood, distinguished leader of Texas soldiers in the War between the states was recalled as a soldier annually commemorated in September. A refreshment plate was served at the close of the business session.

The garden of Mrs. Hugh Vaughan of Sand Grove has furnished 152 containers of vegetables for her own pantry and 337 for others besides fresh vegetables for her own and three other families all the year.

The garden has been kept in prime condition for planting. As each vegetable was removed, that part of the garden was plowed to be ready for planting.

Late in August the preparation for a fall garden was made. The land was in good condition. Mrs. Vaughan bought seed recommended by the Extension Service for fall planting in Central Texas. She obtained this list from the office of Dorothy Porter, Milam County Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Vivian Ondrej was honored at her home Friday evening with a linen shower by Miss Velma Ondrej, the bride-elect's sister, Misses Agnes Hobner, Mary Richter and Rose Zarosky. Several games were played during the evening. Prizes went to Mrs. Robert Williams and Mrs. Bill Parma, who presented them to the honoree. A toast was given by Katherine Gordon. Punch and cake were served to forty guests. Plate favors were swan baskets filled with mints, and small scrolls tied to the baskets read "Vivian and George, Sept. 17th." The honoree received many beautiful and useful gifts for which she thanked each person in her own charming manner.

The Committee for the Boy Scouts of Milam County met at the Chamber of Commerce rooms for high noon luncheon Monday, with J. R. Bush, Vice Chairman of Milam County Scout Committee, presiding. Chas. G. Rutledge of Temple, a scout executive, was present and discussed various duties of the committee members and other activities. Rev. O. C. Acree, of the First Presbyterian church, was present and reported that the Lions Club was sponsoring a Mexican Troup of Mexican boys with Tomas Garcia as Scout Master. A Scout Circus will be held in Waco on the 13th and 14th of October and parts that Milam County Scouts will take, was discussed. Those present were: Rev. Maurice Grove, F. E. Woodruff, Rev. O. C. Acree, J. L. Calloway, C. W. Weise, Narvie Caperton, Fred Jackson, F. G. Blake and Charles G. Rutledge of Temple.

Five members of the Bethlehem Home Demonstration club made a report recently on home screening. One goal in kitchen improvement work is to have all openings tightly screened. Mrs. W. T. Cooper repaired two screen doors; Mrs. L. L. Bradley had 4 window screens cleaned and the frames painted, new wire put on 2 doors and 2 windows and a screen made and placed on the chimney to keep out mosquitoes; Mrs. Hood Caldwell put up a new screen door; and Mrs. Kornegay screened 3 windows and put new screen wire on three doors.

Notable among the season's events was the morning coffee when Mrs. J. W. Kemp and niece, Miss Eleanor Bowmer were joint hostesses at the home of the former, East 23rd Street, honoring Mrs. Raymond P. Bennet, a recent bride. This well appointed home was attractive with beautiful pink rosebuds, queen wreath and plumosa, that lent beauty and fragrance throughout the reception rooms. Mrs. Howard Baskin met the guests at the entrance and directed them to the receiving line where the hostesses and honor guest, beautifully gowned, made welcome the callers.

The dining room table was laid with a center piece of the chosen flowers. Mrs. W. A. Bonds poured coffee from a silver service and Mrs. John Rossen presided over the fruit juice. They were ably assisted by Mrs. Bob Terry and Mrs. La Bertice Robinson. Many guests called during the hours of 8:30 to 11:30 and welcomed Mrs. Bennet into our midst whose husband has been a member of the Cameron school faculty for several years.

Hilliard Thomas and sister, Miss Viola Thomas, children of Mr. and Mrs. Rush A. Thomas, left the first of the week for Austin where they will be students at State University. Hilliard will be a senior this year and Miss Viola will be a sophomore, having attended a girls college at Columbia, Mo., the past school term.

E. O. Schiller, Jr., will leave for Austin Sunday and will re-enter State University. He was a freshman last season, and made fine progress in his studies.

THINGS WORTHY OF MENTION

Perseverance is a quality greatly to be admired in anyone. Perseverance is the art of "keep going" that has reached many a hard goal that could not have been attained by those who could not take the hard knocks and stay with the thing they had started when it would have been easier to quit.

The art of saying "please" and "thank you" is worth cultivating by anyone and to be admired in those who practice little courtesies. It takes only a small amount of time to observe small courtesies and the returns are large. In this day and age many are in such a hurry and have the "just so I get my share" attitude, they fail to observe the rules of politeness. Among the most polite people I know are filling station operators. In order to keep their place among so many competitors they must be polite to the public. It really pays to be courteous and it takes little effort on anyone's part.

I know of nothing that is more universally welcomed than the local newspaper. We often fail to appreciate a good thing when we have it, yet we would certainly count it a loss if for some reason we could not get a copy of our local paper. Especially does the home-town paper appeal to those who are away from home. They can appreciate its value more than anyone. We should appreciate our home-town newspapers more because they merit our best regards.

Mrs. Herman Boedeker was hostess to her forty-two club recently with Miss Annie Boedeker as her guest. The color scheme of green and pink was carried out quite successfully with pink crepe myrtle and pink cactas. Table cuts went to Mrs. Ray O'Neill, Mrs. J. J. Parma and Mrs. William A. Sell. Mrs. Ray O'Neill received high score and Mrs. Henry Dakel got second high. Ice cream and cake carrying out the pink and green color scheme was served to the guests.

Milam Theatre to Open Sunday With "Wells Fargo"

One of the most stirring and inspiring stories taken from American history sweeps across the screen of the Milam Theatre Sunday in a majestic cavalcade which ranks easily as one of the screen's major accomplishments. The Milam will be open Sunday and Monday until further notice.

The story is the dynamic "Wells Fargo," Paramount's tribute to the men who built and maintained America's first life line of empire. It covers broadly the stirring quarter of a century which began with the discovery of gold in California and the end of the War Between the States, the crowded years during which the American nation spread from ocean to ocean and its future greatness was established.

To quote the author of a recent history of the express business, "the story of it has been told and retold, but when will it ever stale?" The manner in which the story is told in film in "Wells Fargo" attests to the epic qualities of the story which for sheer power, has no equal in film history.

The story begins with the decision of a young New Yorker, played by Joel McCrea, to enter what was then one of the most important as well as dangerous though lucrative businesses in the West—the carrying of mail to the frontier outposts and the returning to "civilization" with the gold which was pouring from the mountains in a steady stream.

The tale follows him as he goes from outpost to outpost, establishing routes for pony express riders and later, the stagecoach. It also tells of his beautiful romance with Frances Dee, daughter of a wealthy Southern banker, whom he marries, and the hardships they endure in the crude West. It follows the romance of these two people for twenty-five years and uses their lives as the framework for a story upon which the whole history of the West is placed.

The brilliant cast also includes Bob Burns, in a role which is new to him—that of a scout and which gives the drawling Arkansan a splendid opportunity to prove what a great actor he really is. The same can be said of Lloyd Nolan, Robert Cummings, Porter Hall, Ralph Morgan, John Mack Brown and a long list of others, all of whom have important roles in this story.

"Wells Fargo" is what motion picture people like to call "big." If it weren't for the fact that the word "epic" has been so much over-used and abused of late, this reviewer would be tempted to describe it with just that simple word. It is all of that and more!

Mrs. O. M. Acree of Dallas and her daughter, Mrs. Adral Bratcher of Demerester, Ga., have been guests in the home of her son, Rev. O. C. Acree and wife. Mrs. Bratcher is head of the Department of French at Demerester College.

a new light on home work

In well equipped homes everywhere the diffused, glare-free light of an I E S study lamp is providing new light on home work, helping youngsters to do their work more easily, and get better grades, too. Lighting tests have shown that many failures were due to poor lighting conditions rather than stupidity.

Poor light, glaring light, both cause eye strain, make one drowsy, increase fatigue. Under these conditions studying is hard work. Give your children the benefit of scientific lighting for their nightly task. Visit the stores of local dealers and see their displays of I E S lamps, in table, floor and wall models will appreciate the humanness of the romantic story, in which home problems are approached from an entirely new angle.

The Motion Picture Cooking School has graduated beyond the demonstration course in the wide variety of household equipment assembled in clear view of the audience. All of the practical equipment is seen in active use, and because "seeing is believing," the audience will soon learn that pies and cakes and salads can make them "stars in their kitchens."

Experienced house keepers will thrill to the adventures of the young Dedee Abot, who suddenly finds herself with a large home to manage and several mouths to feed—as well as a handsome young movie actor to impress.

What happens when she tries to make a fluffy lemon meringue pie or a marshallow chocolate cake? What happens when the "man of the hour" drops in for dinner?

To unravel the mystery in advance would be to rob this clever tale of its novel approach. However, the audience is due to share in a rollicking good story and to learn much about home-making at the same time.

Every listener will find a harvest of practical ideas among the suggestions for more efficient home-making, covering such daily problems as laundry, refrigeration, up-to-date entertaining, beauty secrets, news of modernized home equipment and tips on making these mechanical servants wield the highest degree of usefulness.

It will be a real cooking class, just as though the model kitchens were right on the stage, and all of the popular features of the old-type cooking school are retained: free recipe sheets, the atmosphere of congenial informality, the wise counsel, the hints on clever short-cuts, and the distribution of daily gifts and real surprises.

Accept the invitation of the Herald and plan to join your neighbors in the Cameron Theatre on October 19, 20 and 21, 1938.

GAS SYSTEM

SEPTEMBER, 1933

September 15, 1933, ended fifteen depression years of Prohibition. Fifteen years during which our federal, state, county and city governments were deprived of millions of dollars in revenue; during which thousands of people were deprived of employment and during which untold numbers of farmers, merchants and manufacturers were deprived of the huge and fertile market reopened on this date by Texas' great and growing brewing industry.

PEARL LAGER BEER CELEBRATION MONTH!

SEPTEMBER, 1938

With the return of beer, law-abiding men rebuilt the brewing industry. Rehabilitation of plants, installation of machinery, large scale purchases of materials gave business recovery its first real stimulus.

Beer taxes and license fees netted Texas alone almost 12 million dollars since September, 1933*, 3/4 of which goes for Old Age Assistance, 1/4 for Public Schools. This is exclusive of approximately twenty-seven millions* for federal revenue beer tax. Over thirty-five thousand Texans are employed at the present time in brewing and dispensing beer in the Lone Star State. Increased business for the farmer, merchant and manufacturer shows that the brewing of beer has given an important stimulus to many of Texas' industries. The San Antonio Brewing Association is proud of its large contribution to these factors in Texas' progress. Especially is it proud, on the Fifth Anniversary of its return, to make PEARL, Texas' Own Beer, available for your social and home enjoyment. PEARL Beer has that "Extra Something" that makes it a Winner with taste-wise Texans everywhere. Every time you say, "Bottle of PEARL, please," you'll find that THE REASON IS IN THE BOTTLE!
